Product(s) affected:	All products using white cardboard boxes with Active Silicon logos.
Description of change:	Change of packaging. As part of our commitment to reduce environmental impact, Active Silicon is changing the box used as packaging for most of its products. The new box eliminates the previously used non-recyclable foam inserts, replacing them with a tensioned film that supports the product. Additionally the brown cardboard is environmentally better than white. The new boxes can also be flat-packed for storage.
Affect that change has on operation:	None.
How to identify original and changed product:	White box changes to brown box, as shown in the photos below. The box label and the product are unchanged.
Date that changed product will be shipped:	The change will roll out across products as stocks of the original boxes run out. The timescales will vary depending on the size of box the product uses.
